

Caramoo: Chick-fil-A has introduced a new milkshake to its frozen drinks line. The Coffee Caramel Hand-Spun Milkshake joined the fast-food chain's menu last week.

For your shrimps on the barby: Vic Cherikoff DownUnder, a new line of Australian-inspired grilling sauces and splashes (seasoned oils) created by famed Aussie chef Vic Cherikoff, arrives in Southern California stores this week. The all-natural, low-fat and low-sodium bottled products can be used as finishing sauces and marinades for grilled meats, seafood, poultry and vegetables. The grilling sauces come in Kakadu Wild Fire Pepper, Barrier Reef Lemon, Lime and Chili. The splashes, made from extra-virgin olive oil, Australian macadamia oil and camellia tea oil, are for drizzling atop meat, vegetables and seafood on the grill. Suggested retail price is $6.99.

King Hawaiian Snacker Rolls.

Fish oils without the ick factor: Fish oils are rich with Omega 3 fatty acids, but their fishy flavor makes them unappetizing in foods. New Aristo Wellness Bars use tasteless fish oils for a healthy, 140-calorie snack bar made with antioxidants, brown rice syrup, honey and fruit. The bars, retailing for $1.89, come in three flavors: Acai-Blueberry and Lime, Pomegranate and Cranberry, and Goji Berry and Orange.

Nutty Bar light: Little Debbie has introduced a 100-calorie version of its popular Nutty Bar chocolate-peanut cookie crisp. The lower-calorie bar cookies are individually wrapped, 12 to a carton, with a suggested retail price of $1.59 per box.

Menehune rolls: King's Hawaiian, the Torrance-based maker of Hawaiian sweet breads and dinner rolls, has introduced a new line of Snacker Rolls, which are four pre-sliced mini sandwich rolls (2-by-4 inches) for making small sandwiches.

Sweet and sour: In time for spring, Breyers has replaced the granola and nut mix-ins for its YoCrunch yogurt cups with name-brand sweets including Nabisco Oreos, Nestle Buncha Crunch, Butterfinger and Reese's Pieces candies. The yogurt flavors (vanilla, cookies-and-cream and strawberry) come in regular and light varieties. The 6-ounce YoCrunch cups retail for 99 cents to $1.19.

New cereal: Hodgson Mills, an Illinois-based maker of whole-grain foods, has added to its all-natural muesli line. Apples & More Muesli features dried sweet apple chunks and raisins, rolled whole oats, red wheat, barley and rye, with sunflower and flax seeds. It comes in a 16-ounce carton and can be served hot or cold.
